Introduction to Sustainability Studies

[Outline and objectives]

Sustainability is an important keyword not only in the present, but also in the coming years for every civilization on the Earth. Sustainability issues are not problems for only developed countries. Developing countries are starting to face the same issues, with some difficulties already emerging while others will likely encounter problems in the near future. Climate change is just one example of the sustainability issues we are facing. Sustainability issues are often reduced to mere environmental issues. However, sustainability issues cannot be perceived correctly nor be solved only by focusing on the natural environment, and it is necessary to look into interaction between human beings and the natural environment. Furthermore, we must recognize that relationships between humans around the world are also an important and integral part of sustainability issues.

[Goal]

This course is designed for two main purposes. Firstly, it aims to allow students to think and imagine about the complexities of what is known as "sustainability." Secondly, it seeks to guide students for further study or courses offered in the SCOPE.

Through this course, students are expected to be ready to take various courses in the SCOPE curriculum and to start building their own values and attitudes towards a sustainable future.

[Which item of the diploma policy will be obtained by taking this class?] Among diploma policies, "DP2" is related

[Method(s)]

For the first purpose, we will search for the answers to questions such as:

- What is sustainability?
- What is an important element for civilization to be sustained?

For the second purpose, we will learn about systems of human knowledge and the means to tackle sustainability issues. Questions to be asked include:

- What is an "issue" or "problem"? Who decides that something is a problem?
- What kind of knowledge and skills will be of use to solve sustainability issues?

Classes will include a range of listening and speaking activities including small group discussion and presentation. Especially, students are expected to express themselves proactively. Method and schedule is subject to change based on discussion in the class.

Feedback on assignments submitted by students will be provided in class or through the Learning Management System.

Please note that the teaching approach may vary according to which threat level we are at. The details will be announced through the Learning Management System.

[Work to be done outside of class (preparation, etc.)]

Students need to prepare for and review each session by using textbooks, references, and distributed materials.

Students are expected to read and study designated reference materials, to do some web site research and to give answers to questions given beforehand for the next class.

Preparatory study and review time for this class are 2 hours each.

[Textbooks]

Materials will be distributed in class.

[References]

Additional resources will be introduced in each class, if necessary.

[Grading criteria]

Assessment will consist of in-class participation (20%), presentation (25%), writing assignments (45%) and overall contribution (10%) Note that students who miss 4 classes or more cannot pass this subject.

[Changes following student comments]

To accommodate more active discussion in the class.

[Others]

Prospective students should note that this course is compulsory for all SCOPE students, and it must be taken before advancing into the 3rd year.

[Career Background of the Lecturer]

The lecturer has working experience in the field of economic cooperation for developing countries. Some parts of the contents of this course have direct relationship with lecturer's experience and knowledge.

[Outline and objectives]

This seminar is designed to provide an introduction to college life and academic skills, and is compulsory for SCOPE students

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

- Find academic sources both at the library and in online databases;
- Gain an understanding of what appropriate sources are for academic projects
- Read them effectively and summarize authors' arguments;
- Make oral presentations;
- Gain basic understanding and application of academic writing skills

Students will gain basic knowledge and skills needed for college life in Japan. Students will also gain basic knowledge of sustainability studies particularly related to academic reading and writing. The course will mainly be based on in-class discussions and assignments based on interests of students. Students will acquire essential active learning components through discussions and peer learning.

[Which item of the diploma policy will be obtained by taking this class?] Among diploma policies, "DP3", "DP4" and "DP5" are related

[Method(s)]

The course will be based on a combination of lectures, class discussions, and may include one or two field trips. Students are required to complete assignments on time and come prepared to the class.

Feedback on assignments submitted by students will be provided in class or through the Learning Management System.

Please note that the teaching approach may vary according to which threat level we are at. The details will be announced through the Learning Management System.

[Outline and objectives]

Seminar (Introductory)

The course is designed as an introductory seminar course for undergraduate students in the SCOPE programme. The course will be a continuation of the basic understanding and utilization of academic environments in universities presented in the first seminar held in the fall semester. Students in this course will especially acquire basic knowledge on designing their research while developing their skill sets to debate, present, and write about their research.

[Goal]

Students will gain basic knowledge and academic skills needed for their college studies. By completing this seminar, students will particularly be able to understand and apply methods of academic research into their studies. Students will also gain basic knowledge of sustainability studies as a theoretical viewpoint to gather their critical thinking and writing skills. The course will mainly be based on in-class discussions and assignments, Some field studies and workshops are planned, depending on the situation, for the students for reflecting their critical thinking and academic skills to report on these studies.

[Outline and objectives]

Join us in the seminar course to gain understanding on fundamental aspects of landscapes and sustainability. We will learn various issues related to landscape sustainability through active learning. course is directly related to the aims of the Sustainability Co-creation Programme (SCOPE) at Hosei University.

A vital attribute of the seminar course is developing a "class project" where students are required to bring their own research questions while employing a suitable method to explore the answer (e.g., literature review, interview, questionnaire, observation). Students will then be required to write a report, summing up their investigations. Depending on their research projects, students will also get chances to learn from fieldworks, and from local stakeholders/resource managers regarding various local sustainability problems.

[Goal]

The course is designed as an advanced seminar course for undergraduate students. Those who are interested to know about sustainable landscapes from a socio-ecological viewpoint are welcome. By completing this seminar, students will gain a critical understanding of the various challenges of sustainable resource use mainly through critical thinking, and discussions.

[Outline and objectives]

Seminar (Advanced)

Join us in the seminar course to gain understanding on fundamental aspects of landscapes and sustainability issues through engaging with local socio-ecological landscapes/seascapes. This seminar will be a continuation of the seminar held in the fall semester and give an insight into the concept of landscapes and its application in studying landscape sustainability.

A major part of the research will link the notion of landscapes together with learning from local knowledgeable stakeholders to have a critical understanding of sustainability studies. A vital attribute of the seminar course is developing (or continuing) a "class project" where the students are required to bring their own research questions while employing a suitable method to explore the answer (e.g., interview, questionnaire, observation) from topics introduced. Students will then be required to write a report, summing up their investigations.

[Goal]

The course is designed as an advanced seminar course for undergraduate students. Those who are interested to know about landscapes and sustainability issues (such as the traditional agriculture and/or fisheries-based systems), including directly visiting these ecosystems, and learning from local stakeholders, are welcome. By completing this seminar, students will gain a critical understanding of different types of landscapes and the challenges they face. They will also work through critical thinking, discussion, and writing to explore workable solutions to these challenges. Students will learn vital oral and written communication skills, mainly through their class projects. These skills will help them in their future studies and research.

[Outline and objectives]

This seminar offers students opportunities to discuss contemporary issues and prospects associated with globalization. Although it is said that information technology (IT) has made a massive amount of knowledge accessible to us, it is entirely unclear how we can effectively use it to make the world more sustainable. On the contrary, we tend to be drawn into a sea of information. This seminar encourages students to gain skills to analyze knowledge critically in this age of globalization.

[Goal]

- 1) learn critical reading skills.
- 2) learn critical thinking skills.
- 3) understand how 'concepts' are used analytically.

[Outline and objectives]

This seminar offers students opportunities to acquire knowledge and skills to analyze the role of business to contribute to solving global issues described in the SDGs, U.N. Sustainable Development Goals. As governments alone cannot solve problems such as climate change, poverty and various forms of inequalities, there is growing expectation for businesses and civil society to play more important roles. Companies are uniquely positioned to work with their stakeholders to reduce negative impact across their value chains and deliver high-impact business solutions to challenging sustainability issues. Through this course, students learn various efforts of global companies to solve challenges on the earth and how they are creating shared value (CSV) and realizing sustained growth.

[Goal]

Students aim at achieving the following goals:

(1)Learn global sustainability challenges and how companies are creating shared values (CSV) and realizing their sustained growth.
(2)Develop logical thinking skills to set hypotheses, collect necessary information, and test the hypotheses through systematic analysis on themes that students choose.

[Which item of the diploma policy will be obtained by taking this class?] Among diploma policies, "DP3", "DP4" and "DP5" are related

(Method(s)

(1)The course will consist of short lectures, discussions, and presentations by students. To acquire basic knowledge on global sustainability and roles of companies, students will review and present selected academic literature and sustainability/Integrated reports issued by major global companies. If students are interested in a specific industry or company, they conduct research and share the research findings with other members of this course.

(2)Feedback on assignments submitted by students will be provided in class or through the Learning Management System.

Please note that the teaching approach may vary according to which threat level we are at. The details will be announced through the Learning Management System.

[Outline and objectives]

This course is designed to be an overview of contemporary Japanese society, with a focus on the issues surrounding diversity and social sustainability. Throughout the term, we explore how we can understand Japanese society, by using various sociological concepts and making international comparisons. By engaging with critical issues in contemporary Japan, we will explore the ways in which the society can achieve a sustainable system and culture both within the country as well as a member of the international community.

[Goal]

Through this class, you will be expected to critically engage with both scholarly discussions as well as media portraits on Japanese culture and society, and demonstrate your understanding through your assignments, individual project, and participation in class.

[Outline and objectives]

Sociology of Gender and Families

The family is one of the most important social institutions that everyone in society is familiar with. Because of the familiarity, however, we often lack critical perspectives on the issues pertaining to the family. We will challenge typically taken-for-granted notions of the family by considering it from a sociological point of view. We will do so by highlighting the ways in which gender plays a critical role in shaping our experiences, identity, as well as relationship to others.

[Goal]

While focusing on families in contemporary Japan, this course will take a historical and comparative perspective to highlight diversity and transformation of families, both within and outside Japan. By investigating both public policies and private dynamics, we aim to deepen our understanding of, and gain critical perspectives on the family.

Upon successful completion of the course, students will be able to:

- 1. identify and critically engage with social issues pertaining to the family and gender;
- 2. understand the connection between individual experiences in family and broader socio-historical contexts; and
- ${\bf 3}.$ discuss issues surrounding the family and gender with a comparative perspective.

[Outline and objectives]

This course offers students opportunities to acquire knowledge and skill to analyze the role of businesses to contribute to global sustainability. There is growing expectation for businesses to play more important roles to solve global problems such as climate change, poverty and various forms of inequalities as governments alone cannot solve these problems anymore. Businesses are uniquely positioned to work with their stakeholders to reduce negative impact across their value chains and deliver high-impact business solutions to the challenging sustainability issues. Through this course, students will learn various cases of global companies' efforts on sustainability, how they are creating shared value (CSV) and realizing sustained growth.

[Goal]

(1)Understand the basic functions of companies including corporate/business strategy, organization, marketing, finance, and human resources.

(2)Understand various topics and theories related to business and sustainability

[Outline and objectives]

This is a course on "International Development" and "Development Assistance". Development is one of the global issues in the current world as shown in the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). International Development Assistance has been perceived not only as an efficient tool for development of many societies and/or economies but also as a way to strengthen world peace. This class focuses on the history and the objectives of international development efforts and relationship between rich countries and poor countries putting special emphasis on Japan's role in the international society.

Completing the course, students are expected:

1) to better understand poverty and inequality in the current globalized world.

2) to acquire basic knowledge on international development efforts. 3) to understand each actor's role and responsibility in development efforts, and 4) to have an idea for more equal world structure.

[Outline and objectives]

This course provides an introduction to the East Asian international relations, helping students to understand it in a broader geo-historical What are the distinctive characters of this region's international relations? How did these relations historically develop? To address these questions, we examine the pre-modern developments of loose regional relations that evolved as part of the Chinese Ming dynasty tributary system and subsequent isolationist policies of each state that continued until the mid-nineteenth century. Then, we focus on modern developments, during which the region was incorporated into the European international order. Finally, based on these historical discussions, we investigate contemporary political, economic, and social challenges in East Asia.

[Goal]

- 1) Understand the history in East Asia in relation to historical transformations of the world as a whole.
- 2) Critically assess the contemporary challenges to East Asian international relations
- 3) Develop skills to critically analyze contemporary issues in world politics through key concepts and theories.

[Outline and objectives]

This is an introductory course on Japanese rural society from a cultural anthropology/ human geography point of view. The main objective is to develop an understanding of Japanese rural society and its contact points with sustainability arguments among the students. It is designed in a way to engage the students to read and understand key literature on the subject, as well as to provide a roadmap for further exploration.

[Goal]

In this course, students will develop a good understanding of the rural societies of Japan, including rural landscapes, and their change, and they will be able to analyze them through recent sustainability literature. The students will become aware of various related issues in Asian and global contexts which will give them a broader idea of the sustainability of rural landscapes in general. This will be helpful for their further studies/research in sustainability studies.

Strategies for Intercultural Communication

ESTHER STOCKWELL

Term:春学期授業/Spring | Credit(s):2 | Day/Period:火 4/Tue.4 | Campus:市ヶ谷 / Ichigaya | Grade:1~4

Notes:

他学部公開: グローバル: 成績優秀: 実務教員:

[Outline and objectives]

Intercultural Communication is a fundamental field of study in today's globalized world. This course will deal two main approaches to intercultural communication, Culture-General Approach and Culture-Specific Approach. In the Culture-General Approach the focus is on building a general understanding about the importance of culture to human existence and in examining ways to either neutralize the impact of culture so that it does not get in the way of communication or to communicate within culturally diverse groups without stereotyping or discriminating. In the Culture-Specific Approach, individuals usually try to learn as much as possible about a particular culture or group of cultures often by comparing them to their own cultural background or a particular nation's predominant culture so that they can avoid communication challenges. Combining these two approaches in this course prepares students to approach intercultural encounters with a set of practical principles and behaviors so that students acquire skill-building opportunities through intercultural encounters.

[Goal]

This course aims to provide students with advanced and integrated knowledge of intercultural communication theories and skills for research and professional practice. The course will analyze critically the key role that communication plays in developing intercultural relations and in managing intercultural conflict, using various case studies from different cultures/countries. In addition, students will be able to evaluate how media and culture intersect as contested zones to influence cultural change. These contents will provide opportunities for students to become aware of diversity of cultures, become familiar with cultural variations, and to develop skills in monitoring personal behavior and responding non-judgmentally to the unexpected behaviors encountered in diverse educational and workplace situations. After successfully completing this course, students should be able to engage sensitively and confidently with individuals, groups, and communities in local, national and international communication environments.

[Which item of the diploma policy will be obtained by taking this class?] Among diploma policies, "DP2" is related

[Method(s)]

Feedback on assignments submitted by students will be provided in class or through the Learning Management System. This course will consist of a series of lectures and various audiovisual materials using technology to provide many different cultural resources from different perspectives. In addition, each class will include interactive workshop activities focusing on group-based discussion, creating cultural resources including video clips and WebQuest lists, and problem solving tasks. In order to develop knowledge and skills, students will be expected to participate in interactive discussions and activities and to critically engage with the weekly reading materials. Please note that the teaching approach may vary according to which threat level we are at. The details will be announced through the Learning Management System.

[Outline and objectives]

Though the meaning of Global Human Resources (GHR) varies from company to company and even among the professionals, it usually connote people who have an ability including a foreign language(s) proficiency and experiences to work in the international arena. Students will learn what the GHR is dealt with by companies at the time of recruitment and promotions after they started working.

This class aims to help students to learn why the GHR has been actively discussed in Japan in the past 10 years or so. Based on that, the class will help students, if they so wish, understand what they should do to work beyond the border of a country. However, the class will focus on GHR at Japanese companies.

[Outline and objectives]

Effective communication is critical to our successful life and careers. But the question is "How can we become an effective communicator?" In this course, we will be aiming to be effective communicators by understanding the following three topics:

(1) Effective communication with a focus on others

When we want to be a good communicator, learning how to speak and write clearly is not enough; it is important for us to improve our ability to connect with others. The ability to truly connect with others is the key to building good relationships and improving our communication. In this course, we will learn how to communicate effectively by focusing, not on our own perspective, but on the perspective of others and their interests.

(2) Understand cultural differences

Understanding cultural differences of people we communicate with is also very important for effective business communication. In this course, we will learn a model called "The Culture Map" and decode how cultural differences impact international business communication.

(3) Understand unconscious bias

In this course, we also learn about unconscious bias. Unconscious bias refers to a bias that we are unaware of, and which happens outside of our control. Unconscious bias happens by our brains making quick judgments and assessments of people and situations without us realizing. Our biases are influenced by our background, cultural environment and personal experiences. Increasing numbers of global companies are introducing in-company education programs on unconscious bias because it could be a potential obstacle for their business unless they effectively address it. In this course, we have a basic understanding about unconscious bias and learn how to deal with

[Goal]

We aim at achieving the following goals:

(1) Learn basic methodologies for effective business communication with a focus on others

(2) Understand cultural differences in communication with "the Culture

(3) Have basic understanding about unconscious bias and how to cope with it.

[Outline and objectives]

The theme of this course is "fashion and sustainability".

In this course, students will learn about the sustainability-related issues surrounding fashion, one of the design forms most familiar to us, and contemplate how we can address these issues through the pieces of clothing we wear every day.

[Goal]

Students will learn the following concepts: 1) how our every-day commodities (in this case, garments) are deeply related to the environmental problems, consumerism and global economy, 2) how we can critically think about the impact our every-day activities (e. g., purchasing clothes, wearing clothes, etc.) have on the sustainability of our society and environment, and 3) what kinds of measures can be taken to tackle sustainability-related issues in fashion.

[Outline and objectives]

"Human and Environment" is an introductory course to learn anthropological theories and discussions on a variety of subjects with regard to human-environment relations.

Through examining anthropological perspectives on the environment, this course will also discuss how environmental subjects are connected to broader socio-cultural issues, such as development, globalization, gender, poverty, and disasters.

Goal

The goal of this course is NOT to teach solutions to environmental problems, but rather to provide tools to think critically about human-environment relations.

The objective of the course is to learn various approaches to understand other countries. In this class, students will learn about Indonesia and India. Both countries have rich and diverse cultures, nurtured by their history as trading hubs in Asia. While both countries have experienced remarkable economic development in recent years and are emerging economies, they also face serious issues related to sustainability. Students will learn the basic knowledge and multifaceted perspectives of the two countries and enhance their ability to understand contemporary issues reported in the media.

[Outline and objectives]

This course focuses on the understanding of environment and society as an integrated system. The course explores the theory of social-ecological systems, and with this theoretical underpinning, we will learn about different aspects of environment and society interactions. We will particularly focus on the role of human agency and its present and possible future roles for the state of the earth.

The course is roughly divided into two parts: (1) problems associated with the environment and society and (2) solutions toward more sustainable human-environment relationships.

[Goal]

At the end of the course, students will develop a good understanding of the main arguments related to environment and society relations from different case studies. These arguments include some of the classic environmental problems in our time, such as loss of biodiversity, climate change, water-energy-food nexus, environmental pollution, and diseases. The students will learn about efforts of conservation, and policies that strive to reduce human impact on the earth's natural systems that we need for our own survival.

[Outline and objectives]

This course explores the interactions between geography and politics to understand contemporary international order and conflicts. It is not only since the rise of the modern nation-state that questions of geography have occupied people's minds, as territorial disputes often led to conflicts. Surprisingly, however, while the relationship between politics and geography is central to intellectual endeavours, it plays only a minor role in contemporary political thought. Aiming to conceive of inclusive and sustainable world order, and reconsider geography for the study of politics, this course critically examines the relation of geography and politics. The course first introduces the history and theory of a sovereign state, and applying it to a case study: the Covid-19 pandemic and the transforming role of states.

[Goal]

1) Understand the basic history and theory of the sovereign state.

2) Display a familiarity with the arguments and ideas of key concepts and thinkers introduced in the class.

3) Apply a range of arguments and concepts discussed in class to reflect on contemporary issues of global politics.

[Method(s)]

For each class, I will provide reading/listening materials, 15-20 minute on-demand lectures, and one or two discussion questions. Students are expected to read the materials, listen to the lectures, and to post their reply to the questions to the Hoppii forum to facilitate online discussions. The posts are counted as class participation (50% of evaluation). The classes are for discussions. I encourage you to study individually according to your own interest to come to the class.

[Outline and objectives]

The Co-creative Workshop provides students with multidisciplinary learning opportunities to deal with various challenges of sustainability. The class brings together students from SCOPE and students from the Faculty of Sustainability Studies and offers them the opportunity to collaborate on workshop projects together. In this Co-creative Workshop, participants will discuss sustainability issues in the field of business and try to come up with solutions through various group work. Examples of cases students tackled in the previous workshop include: (1) achieving local revitalization in rural areas by tackling social problems with a social business approach, (2) ensuring environmental and social sustainability in the global supply chain of an apparel company, and (3) conducting in-depth analysis on sustainability efforts of global companies such as Apple and Google.

[Goal]

By the end of the semester, students should be able to:

- (1) identify and analyze sustainability problems in given cases
- (2) interact proactively and collaborate with diverse participants
- (3) design collaborative solutions and present them in the class

[Outline and objectives]

This course will seek to introduce the culture & society of contemporary Britain to students through a series of stimulating audio-visual units, together with selected thematically linked readings.

[Goal]

During this course, through regular exposure to a variety of audio-visual material, students will have the opportunity to sharpen their listening skills. Follow-up pair-work comprehension questions, discussion & structured conversation practice will also give them the opportunity to improve their oral skills. Finally students will be encouraged to reflect on their own culture & society as they learn about UK.

[Which item of the diploma policy will be obtained by taking this class?]

[Method(s)]

The previous lesson's reading assignment will be reviewed before a pair-work preview will introduce the theme for that lesson. Any required vocabulary will be previewed before students view/listen to the material.

Pair-work comprehension questions will allow students to check their own understanding, while a post-viewing discussion will offer more chances to analyze the material. Time permitting, there will be structured conversation practice before outlining the following week's homework.

[Outline and objectives]

Despite the rise of powers in Asia such as China & India, the US remains the pre-eminent global power and a key to understanding its prominence lies in an understanding of its rise as a superpower during the 20th century. Therefore, this course will focus on key political, economic & cultural developments during the latter half of that period, how they contributed to the rise of American power and continue to influence nations around the world, especially in Asia. Regular reading assignments will be set, analyzed & discussed during the lessons, allowing students to reflect on how the US continues to influence their nations as we enter a new century.

[Goal]

Through a variety of media, this course seeks to firstly, give students a thorough understanding of key events in the US from the end of World War I to the close of the century. In addition, students will be able to comprehend how those events impacted not only on the course of modern US history, but their wider effect throughout the world, especially in the Asia-Pacific region.

This course aims at introducing basic notions of international law. First part of the course introduces main subjects of international law and focus in particular on elements of statehood. A second part will discuss how norms of international law are created. Finally, a third part will provide these elements with some dynamism by examining the course of normal relations between States.

[Outline and objectives]

This course will provide students with a rough picture of law. It does so by introducing basic legal concepts.

The first part of the course introduces two main faces of law: justice and order. The second part focuses on the components of a legal order, which are mainly subjects and norms. The third and last part deals with the notion of legal relations, which are either horizontal or vertical in nature.

[Goal]

By attending this course, students will be able to:

a. understand basic legal concepts,

b. build a foundation for studying more specialized fields of law, c. acquire basic legal knowledge that will complement their studies in other fields.

d. handle better daily life situations by acquiring a feeling of what is legally correct and what is not, which will hopefully help them to remain free from abuses.

[Which item of the diploma policy will be obtained by taking this class?

[Method(s)]

The course will introduce one new concept each week. In so doing, the class will consist in lecture and discussion. In addition, the course will rely on studying excerpts from classical works. Practice for this course will consist in text commentaries. Feedback by peers and the instructor on these assignments will be given in class.

The course follows a progression so that each class is dependent on previous classes; hence, students may find it easier to follow classes if they have consistent attendance.

[Outline and objectives]

The UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, or Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) have come to be recognized as common tasks for the human society, which is, in a way, a manifestation of the severity of various problems we as a species are faced with. In light of this current situation, this course focuses on the concept of "sustainability" so as to provide students with an opportunity to learn about basic scientific aspects of environmental problems and also to learn about relevant social issues in an attempt to provide a view from a wider perspective.

[Goal]

This course is designed to teach about ecological and social issues. Therefore, the course objectives are 1) to understand basic scientific concepts required to comprehend various environmental problems, 2) to understand social problems related to the environmental problems dealt with in this course, and 3) to form personal perspective and opinion about the current state of human society by understanding the interrelated nature of the environmental and socioeconomic problems.

Which item of the diploma policy will be obtained by taking this class?

[Method(s)]

Although this course deals with various topics from the perspective of "sustainability", the course is divided roughly into two parts. In the first part, students will learn about the basic features of ecosystem and biodiversity, that is to say, the natural world that surrounds us and provides us with essential resources. The second part will focus on environmental and social problems related to agriculture (food production) and use of other natural resources in order to explore our personal involvement in these issues.

The course will be taught mainly in lecture-style classes, however, there will also be opportunities for students to actively participate in class through, for example, group activities and discussion. In addition to in-class interactions, students will utilize the learning assistance system (Hoppii) to express their opinions/reactions and to submit questions regarding the materials presented in each class so as to help the instructor to grasp students' progress as well as to address their concerns, as needed. Note that, if the university's action policy level is set to 2, in principle, this class will be taught online via zoom. Details will be announced via the "Hosei portal to pick up information (Hoppii)".

One of the most pressing issues the Earth is facing is environmental problems. Such environmental problems are universal issues, so all the people on the earth should cooperate to solve these problems. [Outline and objectives]

From the middle of the nineteenth century, more and more Japanese people traveled abroad hoping to learn new knowledge from foreign countries. On the other hand, some people came to Japan from Europe, North America, and Asia with various purposes, such as business, diplomacy, evangelism, and education. Why and how did these people decide to travel from/to Japan? What did they learn from foreign cultures? What did they bring back to their home countries? This course offers students an opportunity to discuss these questions and explore the struggles and achievements of pioneering historical figures who crossed the borders and received rich experiences in foreign countries.

[Goal]

Students will be familiarized with the nature and methods of history.

Students will gain basic knowledge on modern and contemporary Japanese history from a global perspective.

Students will develop their skills for reading, presenting, and writing through historical documents.

[Which item of the diploma policy will be obtained by taking this class?]

[Method(s)]

Based on the assigned readings and the instructor's lectures, students will discuss various topics on modern and contemporary Japanese history from a global perspective.

Students are expected to read the assigned materials before a class and to actively contribute to the class discussion. Students are also expected to give one presentation and to write one essay on a historical figure whom students choose.

All the assigned documents are written in English, and discussion, presentation, and writing are conducted in English. Knowledge of Japanese history and the Japanese language will be helpful, but it is not required.

[Grading criteria]

Class participation 50%; Presentations 25%; Final essay 25% Class participation:

Students are expected to read the assigned materials and contribute to class discussions. Simply showing up for class is not enough. Students may miss class only if it qualifies as an excused absence (e.g., illness or grievance). Please clear your absences with the instructor beforehand. Three or more unexcused absences can result in failure.

Presentations:

Students are expected to give two presentations; one is about the assigned readings, and the other is about a historical figure whom students choose for the final essay.

Final essay:

Using the assigned readings as a starting point, students are expected to prepare a 5 to 10-page paper on a historical figure whom students choose.

[Outline and objectives]

In today's globalization, we are increasingly required to interact internationally across linguistic and cultural borders. Misunderstandings and conflicts are bound to occur, which calls for constructive dialogues and creative solutions. In this course, we will focus primarily on "invisible culture" to deepen your understanding of diversity in cultural orientations, values, behavior, and language uses. You will also reflect on your intercultural experiences and explore your multicultural identities while studying dynamic cultural dimensions.

[Goal]

In this course, you will 1) cultivate your understanding of the relationships between culture and identity, 2) be able to analyze examples of and reasons for intercultural clashes and relate to others respectfully to come up with constructive solutions to intercultural issues and confusions, 3) be able to use concepts such as stereotypes, generalizations, othering, and marginalization in your analysis, 4) reflect on your intercultural experiences and multicultural identities.

[Which item of the diploma policy will be obtained by taking this class?]

[Method(s)]

This is a hybrid class. Depending on the pandemic situation, we may meet most of the weeks on Zoom but if the situation allows, we may meet some weeks in person. Please see Hoppii for details and refer to the instructions there on how to connect to Zoom to attend the first class online.

Before class you are required to work on reading and complete assignments. In class we study relevant material, complete application tasks in small groups, and share your discussion with the whole class. You are encouraged to actively participate in this problem-based learning (PBL). Feedback will be given orally in interaction throughout the course. Written feedback will be provided for your written papers within a week of submission.

[Outline and objectives]

Without cultural knowledge, language users may not fully understand the meaning of a message. Even with perfect grammar, we could completely offend our conversational partners without using language in a culturally suitable manner. In this course, we will take a close look at the face-saving strategies used in world languages. We will also consider and discuss diverse cultural values and orientations that are closely connected to verbal and non-verbal behavior. Enhanced linguistic and cultural awareness will help you become a more tactful and respectful user of your first and second languages and prepare you for effective intercultural communication.

[Goal]

In this course, you will become able to 1) cultivate your understanding of the relationship between language form, meaning, and context, 2) become familiar with the notions of face and politeness, 3) collect and analyze authentic language samples, 3) understand cultural values and orientations behind language use in world languages. The course will also provide an opportunity for you to reflect on intercultural misunderstandings and respectful communication strategies with which to relate to others.

Because this course is to be conducted in English, students must be competent speakers/writers of English (e.g., native or proficient with TOEFL ® iBT 61 or above). International and Japanese students of any majors are welcome as long as they are interested in world languages. Students should view each other's languages and cultural experiences as an asset to this course and create a friendly and respectful learning community.

[Equipment student needs to prepare]

Be prepared to use Hoppii, Google Classroom, and Zoom with your university account and check your university email daily. You will need to use a headset with a microphone if you are attending class on campus.

(Others)

Depending on the pandemic situation and your preferences, course delivery method may be changed. Please check the announcement to be made on Hoppii before the start of the course.

Without cultural knowledge, language users may not fully understand the meaning of a message. Even with perfect grammar, we could completely offend our conversational partners without using language in a culturally appropriate manner. In this course, we will take a close look at the face-saving strategies used in world languages. We will also consider and discuss diverse cultural values and orientations that are closely connected to verbal and non-verbal behavior in world cultures. This enhanced linguistic and cultural awareness will help you become a more tactful and respectful user of your first and second languages and prepare you for effective intercultural communication.

Subtitle: Art-Based Education: Learning language and social activism

Term:春学期授業/Spring | Credit(s):2 | Day/Period:木 3/Thu.3 | Campus:市ヶ谷 / Ichigaya | Grade:1~4

Notes:

他学部公開: グローバル: 成績優秀: 実務教員:

[Outline and objectives]

Have you learned an additional language through music, film, poetry, stories, novels, or any other forms of art? What was your experience like? In this course, we start by discussing why art facilitates learning, especially second language acquisition. You will then experience various forms of art incorporated into language learning and teaching through the modeling by the instructor as well as through peer teaching. We are also going to discuss social activism expressed through artwork and research activism in the world.

[Goal]

In this course, you will: 1) understand and appreciate artistic forms of language education, 2) understand social activism behind artistic expression, 3) be able to analyze the relevance of the social issues to the present-day world of globalization, and 3) participate in an art-based approach to language learning/teaching using your creativity. You will also reflect on your own reactions to an artistic approach to language education and social justice and consider how this learning may influence your values, identities and worldview.

[Which item of the diploma policy will be obtained by taking this class?]

[Method(s)]

This is an online, real-time delivery course; every class will be taught on Zoom. Please refer to the instructions on Hoppii on how to connect to Zoom to attend the first class online, in which more detail will be explained.

Before class you are required to work on some reading assignments. In class we study new material, complete relevant tasks in pairs or small groups, and share your discussion with the class. You are encouraged to actively participate in this problem-based learning (PBL). Feedback will be given orally in interaction throughout the course. Written feedback will be provided for your written papers within a week of submission.

Message to the course participants:

This is a relatively new course that opened in the spring of 2019. We had fascinating discussion and both students and I learned a great deal! This course is conducted in English. Students must be competent speakers of English (native or proficient with TOEFL $\ensuremath{\mathbb{R}}$ iBT 61+ or equivalent). If your scores are TOEFL $\ensuremath{\mathbb{R}}$ iBT 61 - 100, you can take this course but be ready to make a little more thorough preparation each week.

If you are interested in current issues, you're an excellent fit for this class. If you are more of a learner who likes the fun of language and art, you are also welcome. I expect international and Japanese students of all majors to work collaboratively despite their different cultural and linguistic backgrounds. Come with an open mind and learn from each other!

[Outline and objectives]

The goal of this class is to learn about the history and culture of French speakers living in the Canadian province of Quebec. Students will look at the very diverse cultural production of Quebec writers, intellectuals, and filmmakers from the 1960s to the present day. The class will focus on one important keyword in order to understand Quebec society and culture: the concept of sovereignty.

 This class will be conducted online.

[Goal]

Students will learn the basic theories surrounding the political concept of sovereignty. Then, they will apply these theories in order to better understand Quebec literature and films. They will be able to develop a critical approach to literary and film analysis that takes into account the cultural specificity of Quebec as well as its place in wider debates concerning political independence, minority language and intercultural communication.

[Which item of the diploma policy will be obtained by taking this class?]

[Method(s)]

This is a lecture class, but students will have to ask questions during class and give their opinion on many aspects of the lecture. After every class they will have to write comment papers.
